Janet Gurtler's writing reads really quickly, and her books are always a great balance of entertaining and thought-provoking. How I Lost You was no exception - I loved it! Very few YA books focus on a platonic relationship rather than a romantic one, so I really appreciated that Janet Gurtler took on the topic of friendship in this novel.

"James will be pissed." She flipped her long dark hair over her shoulder. "He's on a mission to find you the best gift ever so you'll fall madly in love with him. But I win!" She raised her hands in the air and jogged in place to break an invisible victory ribbon. Now wasn't the time for another lecture about being nicer to James.

How I Lost You is one of those reads that gets you emotional. Janet Gurtler's writing pulled so many emotions out of me ranging from sadness to extreme joy to fury. I've never yelled so much at a book in my life, there were instances where I would have to put the book down and control myself before I could start reading without furiously yelling at certain characters.
